
Allied International Trading Ltd, operating as "Supertouch" since 1996, is a leading provider in the manufacture and distribution of Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) and Workwear solutions. We are dedicated to delivering products and services that meet the highest standards of quality, safety, and regulatory compliance. Supertouch pledges to supply safety equipment and services that strictly adhere to all relevant standards, regulations, and claims. When applicable, we maintain updated technical files and documentation, ensuring regulatory compliance information is readily available upon request.

For products sourced externally, Supertouch requests verification that technical files are current, complete, and include essential conformity assessments and regulatory compliance certificates. We take all necessary steps to confirm the validity of compliance documentation from external suppliers for the products we offer.

Supertouch has been recognized as one of the "1000 Companies to Inspire Britain" by the London Stock Exchange, reflecting our position among the UK's most dynamic and rapidly growing small and medium-sized businesses. Our commitment to reducing waste, enhancing process understanding, and ensuring compliance supports the organization's sustainability, while preserving organizational knowledge for consistent product and service delivery and business continuity.

We are committed to upholding our certifications for ISO 9001, ISO 14001, and ISO 45001, covering quality, environmental, and health and safety management. Through collaboration with all stakeholders, we pursue these standards to ensure consistency, continuous improvement, and trust in our processes. Our quality objectives align with our policies and adapt to the evolving context of our organization.

The management team prioritizes customer satisfaction by applying a robust Quality Management System and upholding a socially responsible approach in our manufacturing and distribution practices.
